1 Introduction

1.1 Overview

This report summarises the methodological aspects of the fourth Australian Social Cohesion Survey funded by the Scanlon Foundation and undertaken by a consortium involving the Scanlon Foundation, Monash University and the Social Research Centre.

This report provides:

- details of the survey procedures including, where appropriate, commentary and analysis on their effectiveness; and
- a consolidated record of assorted project information.

The report is structured as follows:

- Section 2 provides details of the sampling process and call procedures;
- Section 3 provides an overview of the questionnaire design and testing process;
- Section 4 details interviewer training and quality control procedures;
- Section 5 reviews the call results, response rate and the efficacy of the call procedures; and
- Section 6 details data preparation procedures.

Detailed reports, source documents and reference information are appended.

1.2 Project background

The Social Cohesion Survey forms part of the Scanlon Foundation Social Cohesion Research Program (SCRP) which commenced in 2007 under the direction of the Monash Institute for the Study of Global Movements (MISGM) and the Australian Multicultural Foundation (AMF). A key element of the SCRP was the conduct of a landmark Australian Social Cohesion Survey in 2007, 2009, 2010 and now 2011.

The aims of this survey are:

- To look at the Australian community's attitudes towards social cohesion, and
- To assess changes in these attitudes over time.

1.3 Survey overview

As with the previous surveys, the in-scope population for the Social Cohesion Survey 2011 was persons aged 18 years and over who were residents of private households in Australia. Data collection was by Computer Assisted Telephone Interviewing (CATI).

The 2011 sample design matched that used in 2010; that is a national survey of 2,000 adults stratified by state/territory and capital city/non-capital city.

As in 2010, SampleWorx was again used to provide the telephone number sample frame. This company has the technology to generate and test all possible numbers within an exchange block. The number is confirmed to be either working or not working by sending a signal to the exchange rather than to the number itself (see section 2.2 for further discussion). This method of sampling ensures the number of unproductive numbers in the sample frame is greatly reduced, leading to improved efficiency in overall sample utilisation.

Approach letters introducing the survey were mailed to all households where randomly generated telephone numbers could be matched to a confirmed address.

Respondents were selected using the "next birthday" method and a range of strategies was adopted to maximise response - these included repeated call backs to establish contact, the operation of a 1800 number by the Social Research Centre, and interviewing in languages other the English (LOTE).

Table 1 provides a summary of project statistics. The response rate for the 2011 survey was 49%, marginally lower than in 2009 and 2010 but still well above the response rate obtained for the 2007 survey. Some changes were made to the 2011 survey questionnaire which saw this questionnaire take slightly longer to administer than the instrument used in 2010. (see Appendix 2 for details of changes).

	2007	2009	2010	2011

2. Sample Design & Survey Procedures

2.1 Sample design

As in previous years, the 2011 survey used a random sampling methodology with the sample stratified geographically. A minimum of 200 interviews was undertaken in each Australian state / territory (i.e. 1,600 interviews out of the overall total of 2,000). The remaining 400 interviews were allocated across those states under-represented by the initial sample allocation (ie: NSW, Victoria and Queensland) in proportion to the population in those states. The interviews in each state were also allocated to Capital City / Rest of State in proportion to the resident population. This approach ensured that the final sample composition was geographically representative of the Australian adult population while, at the same time, ensuring a sufficiently large sample in each state/territory to support analysis at that level.

2.2 Sample generation

As in 2010, the Random Digit Dialling (RDD) sample for the survey was generated by SampleWorx. SampleWorx offer a technology-based, as opposed to a list-based, solution to the generation of working landline random digit dial numbers. The building block for the SampleWorx product is the Australian Communications and Media Authority (ACMA) exchange prefix listing (not a directory listing). All possible numbers within an exchange block are generated and tested (i.e. confirmed as working or non-working phone numbers) by sending a signal to the exchange rather than having to send a signal down the line to the number itself. This means that all working numbers across all ACMA exchange blocks are identified and included in the sample frame. Each number generated is assigned a "best estimate" postcode, based on exchange district and charge zone, which can be used for a priori allocation of numbers to a geographic stratum.

The main advantage of the SampleWorx approach is that it is exchange-based, and that working telephone numbers have been pre-identified, leading to a higher connection rate and improved fieldwork efficiency.

A total of 12,288 randomly selected records were obtained from SampleWorx to provide the sample frame for the 2011 survey. These numbers were matched against current address information held by commercial list providers.

Table 2 (column C) shows the SampleWorx address match rate to the last commercially available white pages database was 53% and Column E shows that an up-to-date address listing could be obtained for 37% of the numbers generated. These are the records (n=4,583) which were sent a primary approach letter. This equates to about 38% more letters sent using SampleWorx sample than in 2009 when we used the traditional "list based" RDD method.

For those records that could not be sent a primary approach letter in advance, letters were available upon request (and additional information was available via the Social Research Centre's web-site and 1800 number).

Total	12,288	6,526	53%	4,583	37%	7,705

2.3 Primary Approach Letter

The approach letter, on Monash University letterhead, addressed to "The Householder", was the same version as used in previous surveys, and was sent to all records for which an up-to-date address could be sourced (see Appendix 6 for a copy of the 2011 letter). The main body of the letter was in English, with translated summaries on the reverse side in Arabic, Turkish, simplified Chinese and Vietnamese. These languages were chosen as they are the most commonly spoken languages nationally.

The approach letter introduced the survey, encouraged participation and provided sample members with telephone numbers, email addresses and website details to assist with the resolution of any queries they might have.

As part of the data collection procedures, arrangements were put in place to send (additional) approach letters to sample members upon request. In such cases a letter was dispatched to the household the next day and an appointment made to call back to the household 5 days later.

No action was taken for return-to-sender approach letters on the basis that the telephone number associated with that address may still be active and should be called regardless of whether or not the approach letter reached the intended household.

2.4 Scope status and respondent selection

The in-scope population for the 2011 Survey was the non-institutionalised population of Australia aged 18 years or over. As such the in-scope population excluded:

- Residents of institutional quarters (prisons, nursing homes, etc) and military bases;
- Persons incapable of undertaking the interview due to a physical or mental health condition (including too old / frail);
- Persons under the influence of drugs or alcohol,
- Non-English speaking persons outside of the six target LOTE communities targeted for this survey (see Section 2.6), and
- Households with no person aged 18 years or over in residence.

The next birthday method was used to select the person 18 years or older in the household to be interviewed. No substitution of individuals within households was allowed.

2.5 Call procedures

A 15-call protocol was used for the study, whereby up to six attempts were made to establish contact with the selected household, and on making contact, up to nine more attempts were made to achieve an interview with the selected respondent.

This call regime was adopted to improve the representativeness of the achieved sample. Previous experience suggested that the representation of groups such as young persons, males and working persons is improved by using an extended call cycle of this type.

Initial contact attempts were made between 4.30 pm and 8.30 pm on weekdays, and 10.00 am and 4.00 pm on Saturdays and 11.am and 4.00pm on Sundays. Appointments were made for any time within the hours of operation of the call centre.

2.6 Procedures for interviewing in languages other than English

Non-English language interviewing was limited to the six most commonly spoken community languages nationally: Vietnamese, Chinese (Cantonese and Mandarin), Italian, Greek, Arabic (inc. Lebanese) and Turkish.

Where the preferred language of interview of the selected sample member was identified as one of those for follow up, initially these records were stockpiled until a reasonable workload for a bi-lingual interviewer was reached.

Where the preferred language could not be immediately identified a call-back was made in the hope that another household member may be available to assist with the request for interview. Where the preferred language was not one of the six target languages, the record was assigned the code “language difficulty, no follow up” and no further call attempts were made.

Bi-lingual interviewers annotated their own questionnaires (one for each target language) with key words and concepts translated. Bi-lingual interviewers then read the questions from their hard copy translated / annotated version of the questionnaire and recorded answers directly into the English language CATI script as normal.

A total of 21 interviews were conducted in one of these six languages.

2.7 Leaving messages on answering machines

A pre-scripted messages was left on answering machines if there had been no previous 'personal' contact made with a household. Refer questionnaire at Appendix 3 for the full message script.

The CATI system automatically scheduled a call back in six day's time the first time such a message was left and for five days hence on the second such occasion.

Messages were not left on answering machines in any other circumstance.

2.8 1800 number operation

Monash University provided a telephone number that respondents could call to verify the survey and find out additional information about why the survey was being conducted. The Social Research Centre operated a 1800 number throughout the study period to handle any questions about participation in the survey (setting an appointment time, requesting an interpreter, refusing to participate etc.).

2.9 Sundry response maximisation procedures

In addition to providing a 1800 number, offering to send an introductory letter and arranging for interviews in the agreed languages, the other response maximisation procedures that applied to the project included:

- Referring sample members to the Monash University number on an "as required" basis; and
- Ensuring appropriately trained interviewers worked on the survey (see also Section 4.2).

3. Questionnaire Design

3.1 Questionnaire overview

The questionnaire for the Social Cohesion 2011 survey largely reflected the content of the 2010 survey with deletions and additions as summarised in Appendix 2.

3.2 Questionnaire pilot testing

The 2011 wave did not have a formal pilot but instead had a slow start with a small interviewing team to assess the changes made to the questionnaire from the 2010 version in terms of flow and delivery. Any feedback received during this slow start was incorporate into subsequent interviewer briefing and training. This phase of the project lasted from the 15th of June up until the 19th of June.

During this phase, standard operational testing procedures were utilised to ensure the CATI script truly reflected the agreed “hard copy” questionnaire.

As there were no changes made to the questionnaire during this phase, the data collection continued on with the full interviewing team after the 19th of June. The data collected during this phase is part of the final deliverable. The final main study questionnaire is provided at Appendix 3.

4. Data Collection & Quality Control

4.1 Ethical consideration

The questionnaire and survey methodology were approved by the Monash University ethics board.

Other ethical considerations for the Social Cohesion Survey included:

- Ensuring informed consent;
- Ensuring the voluntary nature of participation was clearly understood; and
- Protecting the privacy and confidentiality of respondent information.

Safeguards regarding the above were covered by the Social Research Centre's contract with Monash University and by the appropriate privacy laws. In addition, the Social Research Centre is bound to adhere to ASMRO Privacy Principles and the AMSRS Code of Professional Behaviour.

4.2 Field team briefing

All interviewers selected to work on the Social Cohesion Survey attended a comprehensive briefing session which covered:

- Project background, objectives and procedures;
- All aspects of administering the survey questionnaire, including specific data quality issues;
- Overview of respondent liaison issues, including refusal avoidance techniques; and
- Practice interviewing.

The briefing sessions were delivered by the Social Research Centre project manager and supervisory staff. A total of 39 interviewers were briefed to work on the 2011 survey.

Consistent with the "specialist team" policy for the Social Cohesion survey, just under two thirds of the interviewing (61%) was completed by 15 members of the interviewing team. The briefing notes are provided at Appendix 4.

Additional briefing procedures for LOTE interviewing also covered:

- Establishing scope status;
- Tone and delivery;
- Reviewing the questionnaire for instances where word-for-word translations may lose their exact meaning or context.

4.3 Fieldwork quality control procedures

The in-field quality monitoring techniques applied to this project included:

- Validation of interviews in accordance with ISO Standard 20252;
- Maintenance of an “interviewer handout” document addressing respondent liaison issues and tips for refusal avoidance;
- Examination of verbatim responses to “other specify” questions; and
- Monitoring (listening in) by the Social Research Centre project managers and departmental supervisors.

5. Call Results & Analysis of Response

5.1 Call results

A total of 46,327 calls were placed to achieve 2,001 completed surveys. This equates to an interview every 23.2 calls and an average of 4.7 calls per sample record.

The most commonly occurring call outcome was no answer (38.6%); there was also a high number of 'appointment' (17.8%) and 'answering machine' (17.0%) outcomes.

Table 4 shows the final call results for the survey. As can be seen, an interview was achieved at just over a fifth (20.4%) of number to which calls were initiated[1]. Of the 9,817 numbers initiated, 28.1% were unusable; 23.9% were unresolved at the end of the call cycle (non-contacts or unresolved appointments); and 6.5% were identified as being out of scope. Refusals (all types) were encountered at just over a fifth (21.1%) of the numbers to which calls were initiated.

5.2 Response rate

For the purposes of this report, and to facilitate comparisons with previous surveys, the response rate has been defined as interviews as a proportion of interviews plus refusals. On this basis the final overall response rate for the 2011 survey was 49.1%.

The highest response rates were achieved in ACT (57.6%), Western Australia (54.6%) and Tasmania (53.5%). The metropolitan region also had a slightly higher response rate compared to the non-metropolitan region.

5.3 Review of call cycle

As was the case in previous surveys, an extended call cycle (i.e. 15 calls) was used for the 2011 Social Cohesion Survey to ensure the achieved sample was as representative as possible of the Australian adult population.

The value of this extended call cycle (a six call cycle being more typical) is evident from the results presented in Table 6 which shows that 15% of interviews were achieved on the seventh or later interview attempt. Importantly, the extended call cycle improved the representation of younger people – 18 to 24 year olds (24% of interviews with people in this age group were obtained on the seventh or later call attempt) and 25 to 34 year olds (26%) and of those people in employment (20%). A similar pattern was apparent in the previous waves.

5.4 Achieved sample profile

Table 7 compares the achieved sample profile (using unweighted data) with that of the general population (based on 2006 Census data). It can be seen there is a skew towards older people. There is also a skew towards females (although the figures shown are closely aligned with the expected household distribution of males and females) and tertiary educated respondents. These results are consistent with other similar surveys conducted by the Social Research Centre. All of these factors were taken into account in the weighting procedure (refer to Section 6.2).

Please note that the latter two publications include Australians aged 15 years or more. Also note that the weighting for the 2011 survey used more up-to-date (2009) population statistics from the ABS rather than the 2006 Census data

5.5 Reason for refusal

Reasons for refusal were captured, wherever possible, from either the phone answerer (household refusal) or the selected sample member (respondent refusal).

As can be seen at Table 8, of those cases that had a reason for refusal recorded, the main reasons given were; “not interested” (60.7%), “no comment / just hung up” (20.3%) and “too busy” (10.5%).

6. Data Outputs & Reporting

6.1 Treatment of responses to open ended / other specify questions

To maintain comparability over time, considerable effort was made to keep coding rules and code-frames consistent with those used in earlier surveys. Nevertheless, consideration was given to possible code-frame extensions for questions with an "other specify" response option although the only extensions ultimately implemented were in relation to items CN3D1f and CN3D1s (ways in which Australia is thought to benefit from the presence of overseas students).

6.2 Weighting

For the 2011 survey data a "rim weighting" approach was used to adjust for differential survey response rates across age, gender, educational attainment and country of birth and, where necessary, to also adjust for disproportionate aspects of the sample design (i.e. disproportionate geographic distribution). Where possible, proportions were taken from the 2009 ABS Estimated Residential Population statistics rather than 2006 Census data – this applied to the population estimates of age by gender by geographic location.

"Rim weighting" was used to create weights which adjusted the data in-line with Australian Bureau of Statistics counts on these variables. The weights are created using a statistical regression approach which seeks to achieve the "best fit" possible with the population proportions specified by the weighting variables while disturbing the overall data as little as possible.

The algorithm used for this purpose was provided in the Social Research Centre's Quantum analysis software to develop sample weights which incorporate the variables state, age, gender, country of birth and educational attainment. These weights were applied to all data prior to reporting and have been included in the electronic data files provided as outputs from the survey.

Appendix 1 provides the population matrices used for weighting purposes in the 2011 survey.

6.3 Data file provision

The Social Research Centre provided two clean SPSS data files – one containing the 2011 data and a time-series file containing selected data from all four surveys. The data files included several derived variables:

- ASGS – postcode data in concordance with the Australian Statistical Geography Standard published by the ABS; and
- SEIFA – postcode data in concordance with the index of relative socio-economic disadvantage, created from ABS census data.

It should also be noted that State and postcode variables reflect responses provided during the interview and therefore the final numbers in each State vary slightly from the original quotas set (as quotas were deemed to be met based on the a priori allocation of records to States / Territories).

Social Cohesion 2011

BRIEFING NOTES

A Research Project for:

Agenda

- Project background
- Detailed questionnaire run-through
- Practice interviewing
- Interviewing
- End of shift review

Project background

- The project is being undertaken by the Scanlon Foundation, Monash Institute for the Study of Global Movements (MISGM) and the Australian Multicultural Foundation (AMF)
- Current study is part of a multi stage research program
- The National Benchmark Study was conducted by SRC in 2007
- Most of the questions are retained from previous waves

About Scanlon Foundation

- The Scanlon Foundation was established in 2001
- Their mission is: "to support the creation of a larger Cohesive Australian society"
- Primarily interested in cultural diversity and social cohesion
- Provides substantial funding grants for further research into these two areas
- Driven by the principle that maintaining social cohesion is fundamental to the future prosperity of Australia

THE SOCIAL RESEARCH CENTRE

Survey overview

- 2,000 interviews across Australia
- 20 minute survey
- We will be doing LOTE interviews as required
- Qualifying respondent is the person with next birthday who is 18+

Survey procedures

- Sample sourced using RDD (Random Digit Dial)
- 15 call protocol
- LOTE interviewing is essential
- Please leave up to 2 answering machine messages

Survey procedures (Contd.)

- Primary approach letter sent to respondents who are currently listed on the white pages – about 50% of respondents are being sent a letter
- Qualifying population is anyone aged 18 years and over in Australia who reside in a private dwelling
- Code to “out of scope”
  - Residents of institutional quarters (prisons, nursing homes, etc)
  - Residents of military bases
  - Are incapable of undertaking the interview due to a physical health condition
  - Do not have the cognitive capacity (dementia, intellectual disability)
  - Are under the effect of drugs or alcohol (interviewer judgement call!)
  - Households where no adults 18 plus are usually resident

Survey procedures (Contd.)

- Respondent selected using the “next birthday” method
- May need to explain (to some respondents) that in order to achieve a representative sample we can only interview the randomly selected person in the household.
- No one other than the “next birthday person” in the household can be interviewed.

Call procedures

- Calls will only be initiated between 4:30 pm and 8:30 pm weekdays and 10:00 am and 4:00 pm on Saturdays and 11:00 am and 4:00 pm on Sundays

- Appointments can be made for any time the call centre is operational

- Up to 15 calls to each household to establish contact and determine that it is a live residential number. In order to make initial contact – the system will automatically spread these call attempts over different days and time of day

- Once contact has been made and the respondent has been selected, further calls will be attempted to interview to the selected respondent

Non-English speaking respondents

- Coding of call results for LOTEs
- LOTE follow up (Arabic, Lebanese, Cantonese, Mandarin, Greek, Italian, Vietnamese, Turkish)
- LOTE other language – no follow up (specify language)
- LOTE (language unknown) - unsure of the language spoken - make an appointment. If still can't identify language at call-back, code to "LOTE other language -no follow up"

Recording of reason for refusal

- Refusals recorded “internally” (not at SMS screen)
- Household refusal – Occurs before you have gone through the next birthday selection process
- Respondent refusal – Directly from the selected respondent
- Record reason for refusal in the usual way
- Differentiate between “hard” and “soft” refusals
- Record “definitely don’t call back” or “possible conversion”

Administering the survey

- Use item level refusal option - “if there are any questions you don’t want to answer…”
- Stress voluntary nature of survey
- Don’t dwell on item level refusals - move on to the next question – “That’s ok” and continue with next question
- Reiterate confidentiality provisions whenever necessary (even if not scripted)
- Explain that we are bound by the provisions of the Commonwealth Privacy Act

Response rate

- Response rates are crucial to the success of this project. It is therefore critical that call outcomes are meticulously and correctly recorded

- High response rates are largely dependent on:
  - Confident explanations of the importance of the survey
  - Simple refusal conversion techniques
  - Persistence in making contact with selected residents

THE SOCIAL RESEARCH CENTRE

Privacy and confidentiality

- Our contract with the Scanlon Foundation explicitly prohibits us from passing on information to a third party
- Details kept strictly confidential and used for research purposes only
- Data analyzed at an aggregated (not individual) level
- Bound by the provisions of the Commonwealth Privacy Act and Australian Market and Social Research Society's Code of Professional Behaviour

Data quality

- Read the question exactly as scripted in order to maintain continuity and comparability with previous waves
- Remember to probe all questions with unfolding agree / disagree scales
- Ensure you code to code frame before putting the response in Other - If you need to put the response in Other – ensure that you are giving the coder enough context to code the information
- Intro - Use Monash University as a selling point and “Community attitudes in Australia”

Data quality (Contd.)

- Some questions capture the “order of mention” – important to record response in order
- Question AN1 will need “on the go” coding – practice this question well – See “Interviewer handout”
- Practise questions with long code frames – e.g. country of birth

Respondent queries

- All initial queries directed to the SRC helpdesk – 1800 023 040
- Monash University - Information on why the study is being conducted:
  - Professor Andrew Markus
  - Tel: 03 9905 9944

Social Cohesion Research Project – National Survey

Dear Householder

My name is Andrew Markus and I am a professor in the Faculty of Arts at Monash University. I am writing to ask for your help with an important Australian study being undertaken by researchers at Monash University. This project aims to obtain people's views on Australian society and its future, with a focus on social cohesion and population issues.

Details of the project may be accessed at http://www.arts.monash.edu.au/mapping-population/

Why were you chosen to participate?

Your household has been selected on a random basis to take part, along with many others across Australia. Any information provided will be treated in the strictest confidence by The Social Research Centre. Monash University will not receive any information from the survey that could identify you or your household.

Possible benefits
This project will provide government and the Australian public with information on social cohesion and immigration issues in Australian society. In doing so the project will make an important contribution to public discussion and planning.

What does the research involve?
The study involves your response over the telephone to a set of questions.

How much time will the research take?
The questionnaire will take approximately 15 minutes of your time.

Inconvenience/discomfort
The survey will not intrude into your privacy: you may decide not to answer some of the questions.

Payment
There is no payment for participation.

Can I withdraw from the research?
Participation is entirely voluntary. If you do agree to participate, you may withdraw at any time.

Confidentiality
Your responses to the survey questions will be entirely anonymous.

Storage of data
Storage of the data will be undertaken under University regulations. The anonymous responses will be kept on secure computers on University premises for a minimum of five years.

Use of data for other purposes
Data resulting from the survey will be reported nationally and will be accessible to researchers.

Results

Once the project is completed the key findings will be accessible for a minimum of five years on the project website. The results of the 2010 survey are at http://www.arts.monash.edu.au/mapping-population/

Further questions
If you have any questions about your participation in the survey or would like to make a time for an interviewer to call you, please call The Social Research Centre on 1800 023 040 (a free call).

If you would like to contact the researchers about any other aspect of this study, please contact the Chief Investigator:	If you have a complaint concerning the manner in which this research project (CF07/1240) is being conducted, please contact:

Sosyal Uyum Araştırma Projesi

Adım Andrew Markus ve Monash Üniversitesi Tarihsel Araştırmalar Bölümü'nde profesör olarak görev yapıyorum. Bu yazıyı size, Monash Üniversitesi tarafından yürütülmekte olan önemli bir Avustralya araştırması ile ilgili olarak sizden yardım talep etmek amacıyla yazıyorum. Bu çalışma, Avustralya'daki bir dizi sosyal konular üzerinde durmaktadır.

Monash Üniversitesi araştırma için gerekli olan telefon mülakatlarını yürütmesi için Social Research Centre (Sosyal Araştırmalar Merkezi) ile anlaşmış bulunmaktadır. Hanenizde yaşayan kimseler, Avustralya çapındaki çoğu kimseler gibi şansa bağlı olarak seçilmiş bulunmaktadır. Sağlanan bilgiler Social Research Centre tarafından tamamen gizli tutulacaktır. Monash Üniversitesi yapılan anketle sizin veya hanenizdeki bireylerin kimliğini açığa vuracak herhangi bir bilgi elde etmeyecektir.

Bu anket yaklaşık olarak 15 dakika zamanınızı alacaktır ve katılıp katılmamak tamamen isteğe bağlıdır. Eğer katılmaya karar vermişseniz, bu kararınızı istediğiniz zaman geri çekebilirsiniz. Verdiğiniz cevaplarlar tamamen isimsiz kalacaktır.

Bu önemli araştırmaya gönüllü olarak katıldığınız için şimdiden teşekkür ederim. Görüşleriniz bizim için değerli ve önemlidir.
